A CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Codden Tells How It May Be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared." —Mrs. M. Codden, 925 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Such annoying symptoms as heat flashes, nervousness, headache, irritability and "the blues," may be speedily overcome and the system restored to normal conditions by this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If any complications present themselves write the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions how to overcome them. The result of forty years experience is at your service and your letter held in strict confidence.

In the Category of Sports Clothes

Two sweaters—as far separated from one another in style as the North is from the South—are presented for the consideration of the sportswoman in the picture above. Each is representative of a type; the first, at the right of the two, being an example of styles used where the sweater is called upon to give actual warmth and freedom of movement. It is a close-knit, snug-fitting garment of wool, machine made, with cap to match, and is one of several varieties that the outdoor girl and the sportswoman find indispensable. This model is in one color, has patch pockets and a wide turn-over collar—with knitted band to hold it close up about the neck. This is its novel feature and speaks for itself, for it assures comfort in the face of ferocious winds. The cap is in two colors.

Sweater coats of brushed wool are much like this model except that they are loose and belted. Usually collar, cuffs and pockets are bordered with a band in contrasting color. Vivid and high colors are well represented; but do not predominate in the new sweaters; turquoise, rose and purple with orange appear among them. The brushed wool sweater coats are very warm looking.

A rival of the sweater has arrived in the very wide scarfs, usually in two-color combinations, having pockets in the fringed ends and belts to match. There is as great a variety in these as in sweaters, suited to as many purposes and climates as the competitors which they are destined to displace, or at least to share favors with.

The pretty garment and cap at the left, by contrast with its sturdy companion, is only acting a part. It is a sleeveless affair of knitted silk, having a cross-bar in a contrasting color, with small tassels suspended on silk cords of the same color, about the bottom. It is made in the slip-on style, but opens a little way down the front where a single button and two cords, ending in tassels, provide fastening and finish. Not much is required of it in the way of warmth and it can, therefore, afford to be sleeveless. The knitted tam, worn with it, is run with stitches like the cross-bar in the sweater in color and a narrow girdle of the silk is knotted loosely about the waist. This is an interpretation of the sweater for tourists to lands of the sun. Its mission is less practical than that of its companion which must face the snow, but they both belong in the category of sports clothes.

Among the very handsome garments of the same character for Southern tourists' wear are the sweaters with fitted body and ruffled skirt, crocheted of heavy silk/wool. They have elbow sleeves ending in a wide ruffle, and, without pretense to any usefulness, other than that of looking lovely, they are the most dignified of all the offerings for sports wear. The crocheted sweater is very open, amounting to a heavy square mesh, for which the blouse worn provides a background.

Hats That Match Merry Eyes

Life is made up of a number of pleasant things, including pretty hats, for little misses like those who look out at us from the picture above. No one with existence overshadowed by an unsatisfactory hat, could look so gay and carefree as this trio. Perhaps it is because this millinery, with bobbing tassel, part bow, or flying ends, is less plain than the majority of hats made for girls. It has velvet and ribbon and tucks and everything to make it a joy to pretty wearers, and we must concede that it matches up well with dancing curls and merry eyes.

We just cannot get away from long-napped furry beaver in children's hats, but it has not a monopoly in the smart sailor with upward-rolling brim at the top of the picture. Here a soft beehive crown made of row after row of narrow grosgrain ribbon, is set off by the beaver trim of a contrasting color. A collar, with a knot and two outstanding ends of ribbon at the back puts a sprightly finishing touch to a successful hat.

Beaver is again among those present when the materials used in the hat at the right are inventoried. Here it covers a crown over which it is draped. The brim is quite splendid with shirred velvet as a rich foil for the crown in a lighter color. Velvet and beaver tell the story of this hat and it has a happy ending—a dancing tassel of yara writes "hats" for it and joins the company of many dancing curls.

Time has added years enough to the history of the girl at the left to allow her a hat that looks much like a turban made of velvet. It has a modelled tan crown with a band of ticked velvet inserted about it. At the side a loop and end of velvet are wired to stand out at a saucy angle, and the young person has arrived at the dignity of a fur neckpiece and large puffs of hair over her ears. She has therefore all the earmarks of the flapper who is nearing sixteen.

spreads out only as far as the knees. Below that point one glimpses a very narrow, clinging underkirt.

The Place and Power of Prayer

By REV. HOWARD W. POPE, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—Lord, teach us to pray—Luke 11:1.

Prayer may be defined as an instinct which God has implanted in the human heart by means of which he retains communication with men and supplies their needs and at the same time guides out his great and glorious purposes. Though sin has blinded man's reason, debased his affections and perverted his will, it has not destroyed the instinct for prayer. Never has a nation existed so low and degraded that it did not worship the Supreme Being in some form.

Instinct Must Be Trained.

Prayer is an instinct, but it requires proper training or it may lead to disastrous consequences—as it leads the Hindu woman to throw her child into the Ganges to appease the wrath of the gods.

The first lesson in prayer which our Savior gave to his disciples is preserved in Matthew 7:7. "Ask, and ye shall receive; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you." Here the Lord teaches us that it is our privilege to ask things of God. He does not promise us that we will receive what we ask for, but he encourages us to ask and to make that the habit of our lives. Our attitude should be that of a child, who might say, "I do not always obtain what I ask my father for, but I always get something, and he gives me good things." So it is with the soul who turns to God in extremity or gratitude; it is sure to receive some benefit. Perhaps it will be the benefit of acquaintance with God, or perhaps we will see our own sinfulness and selfishness.

Not a Substitute for Work.

Our Savior further teaches us that prayer is never to be regarded as a substitute for work, but rather as a supplement to our normal activities. If a child asks his mother to pick up his belongings a wise parent will refuse. What the child can do, he must do; but what the child needs to have done and cannot accomplish himself, that the mother will gladly do.

In John 15:7 our Savior gives us a lesson in prevailing prayer, by which I mean prayer which prevails with God and secures the very thing for which it asks. There Christ says: "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you." This promise that if we fulfill certain conditions God will give us our desire.

Appeal Sets Even Law Aside.

The place of prayer may be illustrated by an appeal which Senator George Hoar of Massachusetts carried to Theodore Roosevelt when the latter was president of the United States.

An Armenian who lived in the senator's home city had earned enough money to send to his native country for his wife and two children. When they arrived at New York it was discovered that the children had an incurable disease of the eyes which, under the laws of the United States, made them ineligible to land in this country. The Armenian engaged a lawyer, who went from one immigration office to another seeking permission for the afflicted children to land.

Meeting failure on every hand, the lawyer enlisted Senator Hoar's influence. The senator came to New York, but found the immigration officials immovable. He then wired the facts in the case to President Roosevelt, and concluded his telegram by saying: "If this is the law, then the law ought to be changed, and you are the man to start the revolution." Twenty minutes later the officials in New York were directed to allow the children to land.

What the parents, the lawyer and Senator Hoar could not do, President Roosevelt could and did do. Even so, we cannot do for ourselves and what our friends cannot do for us, Jesus Christ can and will do. He is the one to whom we are bidden to come at all times for all things that pertain to our own, or our friends' welfare. The Savior who sits upon the throne of the universe, and who has the ear of the Father, is able to do all things for us.

Humility Becomes.

Humility among Christians is a practical virtue, not a self-suppressing pose. It is not so much making ourselves small as seeing how small we are. But smallness implies contrast. If everything in the universe were small, nothing would be small in any real sense. For we should have no sense of smallness or largeness. If we saw only things small, it becomes very hard within us the promise of tasks that shall be mighty. If we feel within us the sense of sin, it is because there is growing there the conquering sense of the Presence of God.—W. H. Blake.

Thought.

It is only by labor that thought can be made healthy, and only by thought that labor can be made happy; and the two cannot be separated with impunity.—Boswell.

Capital and Labor.

If you grow weary from labor, pause a moment and look heavenward.—Dean Watson.

Not by the Hour.
Do you understand the new plan of sales?
You can explain them.
I think so. Of course you know how to have metered service.
I say that in the paper.
These meters will be charged for every sale.
Each unit will be a distinct charge.
Yes.
The kind of that I had no idea when they put a meter on the line they were going to charge us by the hour, and judging from the time it takes me to get a number now it would bankrupt me.—Detroit Free Press.

Keep Accounts.

Farming is a business the same as banking or running a mercantile establishment. These are products to be sold and articles to be bought. The keeping of a record of these and determining the relation of the output to the income are important considerations on every farm. The farmer should know what his income is and just how he is disposing of it. He can only know this by keeping books and the first of the new year is the proper time to begin.—Exchange.

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER.

Constipation invites other troubles which come speedily unless quickly checked and overcome by Green's August Flower which is a gentle laxative, regulates digestion both in stomach and intestines, cleanses and sweetens the stomach and stimulates the bile and impurities from the blood. It is a sovereign remedy used in many thousands of households all over the civilized world for more than half a century by those who have suffered with indigestion, nervous dyspepsia, sluggish liver, coming up of food, palpitation, constipation and other intestinal troubles. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Try a bottle, take no substitute.—Adv.

Paper Saving Urged.

Save the paper, says the American Forester. Magazine of Washington, which urges a paper-saving campaign in the schools and that business write the carbon of replies on the back of the letter received wherever possible, thus cutting flitting and paper bills. A cut of 25 per cent on our paper bill would mean 4,000,000 less tons of freight for the railroads to handle.
